As the state's independent, sector wide representative arts body, AICSA is extremely valuable to the South Australian arts sector.

The Council receives no operational funding from the government, and derives its support from the industry through member subscriptions, fundraising, sponsorship and in-kind donations.

We exist because South Australian organisations, artists, artswomen and arts lovers support our goal to help create a more dynamic and fertile environment for the arts to flourish by joining us and becoming members. The more members we have, the weightier our voice for the arts.
